STEVENS's New LECTURE upon HEADS: With Critical Obſervations.

THE following are ſome of the characters taken from Stevens's New Lecture upon heads, with the remarks ſubjoined to each. The reader will be pleaſed to obſerve, that the words of the Lecture are diſtinguiſhed by inverted commas, and the remarks without.

Buſt of Sir D. DAISY.

"This is a head of one of the INSIPIDS. He is called Sir Dimple Daiſy; and theſe curls are Love's Lapwings. Theſe delicate Inſenſibles are to be met with at all public places of entertainment;---a ſet of well dreſſed, dwaddling Inſignificancies; poſſeſſing neither ſympathies, nor antipathies: They are poliſhed too high to have any paſſions, for it is vaſtly rude to ſhew you are pleaſed;---and vaſtly unpolite to expreſs the effects of any paſſion: Extreme politeneſs never indulging in any effuſion of the ſenſes."

From the affected languiſh of the eyes,---the dreſs of the hair, ---the delicacy of the complexion, &c. the mechanic has in this buſt, given us a ſtriking reſemblance of this race of the Inſipids. The reflections delivered upon theſe heterogeneous kind of animals, are juſt and humorous.

Buſt of a BROAD GRINNER.

"This is the repreſentation of one of thoſe who fancy, that men to be witty muſt always be upon the broad grin. This appearance is what many upon the ſtage put on, and what a great many, who are not upon the ſtage, can never put off. He is always teizing you when in company, to tell a ſtory to make 'em all laugh: Now do, Mr. What d' ye call 'em, tell us ſomething to make us all laugh. And he'll tell you the moſt beſteſt and moſt comicaleſt ſtory, that ever you heard in all your born days, that will make you die a laughing. And he interlards his ſtory with, And ſo ſays I---and ſo ſays he---and ſo ſays I to him---and he to me---and as I was a ſaying to him, &c. Thus finiſhing his ſtory, and finding nobody laugh at it, he hangs down his jaw in a diſconſolate manner, and ſays, Why--why it was a good ſtory when--when I heard it: Why then---that's all."

The continued roar this repreſentation cauſes in the houſe, is a proof of its agreeable effect. The head of this Broad Grinner is well executed, and is a juſt emblem of that numerous herd of Baboons, who from their faint reſemblance of human nature, but more from their connection with fortune, are permitted thus to infeſt ſociety. The Lecturer's perſonification of one of them, is highly entertaining; as we are here indulged with a diſplay of his great comic powers.

Buſt of a SHEEP'S TAIL MACARONI.

"Poets of old lampooned the beaus of their times, for affixing monkies tails to their heads. Our Jemmies, more innocent, only wear ſheeps tails added to theirs. They are copied from the Turkiſh ſheep, who are obliged to have a ſmall carriage on two wheels to draw their tails along. Mr. Moore is now inventing ſome ſelf-moving machines, on purpoſe to lighten the heads of our modern fine gentlemen. This [turning the twiſted tail] ſeems like the handle to a bell-rope, to ring and enquire if any body is at home.---But if any body was at home, Reaſon would turn ſcavenger, and remove this nuiſance.---But what adds to the ridicule, is, that it does not belong to the head, but like an artificial tail upon a docked coach-horſe, is only hung on for ſhew---[pulls it off."]

Buſt of a THICK STOCK MACARONI.

"Here is another faſhionable lump! This is the thick ſtock faſhion. Might we not very naturally ſuppoſe there was ſome epidemical hoarſeneſs about town, and that this bunch was put round the throat by way of cataploſm, to prevent the infection from ſpreading?---This is borrowed from the beau Hottentots, who twine the entrails of the beaſts they kill in hunting about their necks, till they have enough to ſet up a tripe ſhop. From hence, this little ornament upon his ſhirt boſom was called a chitterlin. Our fathers uſed to wear cravats, or turnovers; their ſons wear turndowns. [Here he takes out the ſhirt collar of an enormous ſize.] This ſeems calculated to be let down at dinner time, to prevent little maſter from greaſing himſelf."

The Satiriſt's obſervations on theſe abſurdities in dreſs, are reaſonable and diverting. The contradiſtinction of the imitations of the former beau, who wore monkies tails, and the modern, who reſemble the Turkiſh ſheep in the figure and ſize of their tails, is a juſt laſh on the eccentric geniuſſes of either time. The reflection on their deficiency in underſtanding, in Reaſon would turn ſcavenger, &c. is weighty. The idea of a ſore throat at the ſight of ſo much linen coiled round the neck, is natural; and the ridiculous riſe of this faſhion ironically aſcribed to the Hottentots, is ſevere and humorous.

Buſt of a FINNICAL.

"Here is a head in high taſte; one of the family of the FINNICALS. His head dreſs is called the forehead ſhrubbery; and reſembles the cabbage tree plant, whoſe fruit grows all on the top. At the firſt view, the ſpectator would be apprehenſive, that the wearer might be in danger of being overſet by a guſt of wind; but that is prevented by this balance affixed behind, which they call a Club. They are a ſociety who never ſay great things, being only haberdaſhers of ſmall talk; they never give a ſentence its full force and utterance, for fear of putting their lips out of order. It is to theſe pretty FINNICALS we are indebted for that refinement on our language, ſo oft made uſe of in the Bon Ton,---immenſely 'pon onner,---vaſtly,---'pon onner immenſely! as if it were ſpelt thus, 'PON ONNER [holding up a garter.] Is it not ſtrange, that perſons who pretend politeneſs, ſhould utter ſuch vulgariſms as theſe?---Prodigiouſly thin! monſtrouſly ſmall! vaſtly little! and immenſely low! There are laws for the preſervation of the game, but not one for the [*] eight parts of ſpeech. If a ſtatute in their behalf were made and provided, it would be of ſervice to gentlemen on both ſides of the queſtion, and form a coalition of parties. If all our politicians did but ſtudy their accidence, there could not be any more falſe concords."

Theſe characters in high taſte, as they principally abound with abſurdities, ſo they are here treated with the ſeverity they merit. The power of the wind on one of their extravagant foretops, we are humorouſly ſhewn, is counteracted by what they call a Club; which huge bundle is exhibited. Poignant as the ſatire really is in this repreſentation, we ſee theſe very Finnical coxcombs every night at the theatres, who come there but to ſport with their own inconſiſtencies.

[*] He might have ſaid Nine, for our language is compoſed of that number.

The obſervations on thoſe vulgariſms made uſe of by theſe gentry, are true, and the authors of ſuch pitiful innovations ludicrouſly expoſed. Conſidering Mr. Stevens's unhappy propenſity to punning, he diſmiſſes this Finnical's head with great wit and pleaſantry.

Buſt of a LONDON BLOOD.

"As there was a lead in high taſte, ſo there is one in low taſte. This is the head of a LONDON BLOOD, taken from the life. He wears a bull's foretop, in commemoration of that celebrated blood of antiquity Jupiter, who transformed himſelf into a bull, that he might run away with Europa: And ever ſince that time, the Bloods have been very fond of making beaſts of themſelves.---He was a genus, and liv'd fuſt!---He was quite the thing, either for kicking up a riot, or keeping it up after he had kicks it up. This was a very high fellow: He would toſs a beggar in a blanket; chuck a waiter out of the window, and bid him be put in the reckoning; run his head againſt a wall; hop round the room with a red hot poker between his teeth, and ſay done firſt for fifty.---He was a man of infinite fancy, for one day he kickt an old woman's coddling kettle about the ſtreets, becauſe he loved fun!---And not a long time ſince, he puſhed a blind horſe into a china ſhop---that was damned jolly! He is a terror to modeſt women, and a dupe to women of the town: Of the latter, this is exhibited as a portrait:

Buſt of a WOMAN of the TOWN.

"As this [pointing to the Blood] is the head of a Blood of the town, or a BUCK, ſo this is the head of a Woman of the town, or a W---; but whatever other title the lady may have, we are not entitled here to take notice of it. All that we ſhall obſerve is, that when we attempted a diſſection of this (the Blood) it was too hard for our inſtruments to penetrate; and this we found ſo tender (the woman of the town) that it mouldered away as we laid our hands upon it."

The buſt of the Blood is a ſtriking reſemblance of that character. The figure, and the maſterly manner in which it is expoſed, combine to raiſe an univerſal deteſtation for ſuch an object. The obſervations of the Lecturer ſpeak for themſelves; but they cannot be done ſtrict juſtice to, when abſtracted from the humoriſt's drollery.

The modeſt apothegmes concerning the woman of the town, does Mr. Stevens great credit. As the want of underſtanding in theſe men is well diſplayed by a chirurgical metaphor, ſo the deviations of the fair ſex from rectitude and virtue, are prettily remarked by the ſame figure.

Buſt of a BLOOD after he has kept it up.

"And here is a LONDON BLOOD after he has kept it up. This is a married Blood too! But it is ridiculous for a man with a bumper in his hand, to think of a wife, that would be ſpoiling his ſentiments. He muſt keep it up! What a pretty piece of furniture this is for a delicate lady's bedchamber! I ſhall conclude the firſt part of this lecture, by attempting an imitation of one of theſe Bucks keeping it up.

"Keep it up!---He! he! he! he! keep it up!---I'll tell you what makes me laugh. We were keeping it up the other night, 'till about four o'clock in the morning: And ſo---and ſo---there was Will the waiter faſt aſleep down by the kitchen fire. The dog can't keep it up as we do. And ſo---he! he! he!--- and ſo, I lays hold of the tongs, and takes a ſwinging red hot coal out of the fire, and---and---claps it upon his foot, becauſe I love fun! and ſo I laugh he---he---becauſe I burnt the fellow. Keep it up; ha! ha! ha!---I'll tell you a damn'd good thing I ſaid laſt week; its the beſt thing I ever ſaid in all my life: Its one of your bob mots or repartees. You muſt know I ſtole a dog from a blind man, for I love fun; and ſo the blind man cried for his dog. So ſays I to the blind man, What you want your dog? Yes, Sir, ſays he. Now mind what I ſaid to him: And ſo you want your dog? Yes, Sir. Why then---go look for him. There---aw! aw! aw!---he! he!---keep it up.

"I hate the parſons! I am ſick whenever I think of one! My brother's a parſon too; I went to dine with him the t'other day, and there were my ſiſters, and ſome what ye call modeſt women; but I ſoon ſent them from the table before dinner was half over. My brother can't bear ſwearing, and ſo I was a mind to ſweat him: So I begun to ſwear, ay! I ſwore all my new oaths! I never ſwore ſo well in all my born days! at laſt my brother, damn'd angry, laid down his knife and his fork, and turning up the whites of his eyes, called out, Oh tempora! oh mores!---Look you, brother, ſaid I, don't think to bully me by calling all your fellows about you; let them come in, and I'll box Tempora firſt, and Mores after! Come, bring 'em in; I'll box 'em both together!---If they won't face me, I'll go and meet them, &c."

[Lecturer retires ſtrip'd, and in a boxing attitude, and the curtain drops.]

This comic wag ſeems to play with the character ſo eaſy and naturally, that we ſhrewdly gueſs it muſt have been in part familiar to him. The various tranſactions are told in the different tones of voice, and expreſſed by diſtorted features, ſuch as one may ſuppoſe the Blood to aſſume at the time they happened. The pleaſure he takes in inſulting a brother's and ſiſters veneration for virtue, is ſtrongly exemplified. His ignorance, love of boxing, &c. is fully diſplayed in the droll idea of Tempora and Mores being his brother's ſervants, &c.

Upon the whole, it is unjuſt to attempt to deſcribe this maſterly imitation, as it can ſcarce appear the ſhadow of Stevens's Blood; nor would that repreſentation have ſuffered this violence, but from a deſire in the author to indulge the public, if poſſible, with the whole of this celebrated Lecture.

A MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTION.

FROM toils of war, from conqueſts bravely won,
Here reſts with heroes Britain's fav'rite ſon;
Whoſe valour in one day to England gave,
What France whole armies ſacrific'd to ſave.
Too poor the purchaſe for ſo dear an head!
For Wolfe, the valiant Wolfe, in triumph bled.
Yet mighty ſhade, how glorious is thy fate,
When mingled thus with th' heroes of the ſtate;
When thus thy monarch, and thy country join,
To raiſe to thee the tributary ſhrine?
Who would not bleed, when George ſuch honour pays?
Who would not die for ſuch a nation's praiſe?

BOSTON, DECEMBER 21.

WE hear that a Commiſſion came, by the Cruizer Man of War (lately arrived at New-York from London) under the great ſeal, appointing and authoriſing Joſeph Wanton, Eſq; Governor of Rhode-Iſland, Daniel Horſmanden, Eſq; Chief Juſtice of New-York, Frederick Smith, Eſq; Chief Juſtice of the Jerſies, Peter Oliver, Eſq; Chief Juſtice of this province, and Robert Auchmuty, Eſq; Judge of the Admiralty, to make enquiry into all the circumſtances relative to the attacking, taking, plundering and burning his Majeſty's ſchooner Gaſpee; and to the inſults offered or obſtructions given, upon that occaſion to his Majeſty's officers within the colony of Rhode-Iſland, and offering his pardon to any of the ſaid offenders (excepting the perſons who wounded Lieutenant Duddingſton, and two others who aſſumed to be the ſheriffs of the colony, and the Captain or Leader of the inſurgents) who ſhall diſcover any of their accomplices; and that Governor Wanton, being the firſt named in the Commiſſion, it is ſuppoſed, will convene the Commiſſioners very ſoon; any three of whom has power to act: That when they are convened at Newport, they are to receive their Commiſſion from Admiral Montagu, who is to hoiſt his flag there: That the King deems all the perſons concerned in burning the Gaſpee, to be guilty of high treaſon; and that all thoſe that are accuſed thereof, againſt whom the Commiſſioners ſhall think there is ſufficient evidence to convict, are to be apprehended and ſent home for trial; and that the evidences againſt them are alſo to be ſent to England; and thoſe who are ſuppoſed can give evidence, but refuſe ſo to do, the Admiral, it is ſaid, has recommended that they ſhould be put on board the men of war until they do; and that the army and navy are to attend the call of the Commiſſioners, or any three of them.

We likewiſe learn, that Captain Keeler, Commander of the Mercury, in conſequence of orders, has notified Governor Wanton that his ſhip is rigged and ready to receive any perſons that may be apprehended for being concerned or knowing to the above affair. In this ſituation of affairs, every friend to our violated conſtitution cannot but be greatly alarmed. The idea of ſeizing a number of perſons, under the points of bayonets, and tranſporting them three thouſand miles for trial, where, whether guilty or innocent, they muſt unavoidably fall victims alike to revenge or prejudice, is ſhocking to humanity, repugnant to every dictate of reaſon, liberty, and juſtice, and in which Americans and freemen ought never to acquieſce.

We farther learn, that the Admiral has recommended to the Governor of Rhode-Iſland, that Captain Keeler, for ſome time ſince ſtationed there, ſhould not be ſubject to any arreſt for the ſeizures he has made.

On Thurſday laſt the Lizard Frigate, mentioned in our laſt, ſailed from hence for Rhode-Iſland.

[IN the year 1664 there was a Commiſſion given to Sir Robert Carr, and three others, "To viſit all the colonies, with "full power and authority to hear and receive, and to examine "and determine, all complaints and appeals, in all cauſe and "matters, as well military, as criminal, civil, &c. according "to their good and found diſcretions, and according to inſtruc- "tions that they ſhall receive." This Commiſſion was looked upon by the Maſſachuſetts colony as a direct viſitation of their Charter, and as ſuch they repreſented it to King Charles, who gave them for anſwer, that he had not given the Commiſſioners any powers contrary to their Charter, &c.

The Commiſſioners opened their court in Boſton at a time when the General Aſſembly was ſitting. Several meſſages paſſed between them. The Aſſembly finally publiſhed a declaration, by ſound of trumpet, of which the following is a part:

"---In his Majeſty's name, and by his authority to us com- "mitted, by his Royal Charter, we declare to all the people of "this colony, that in obſervance of their duty to God and to "his Majeſty, and to the truſt committed to us by his Majeſty's "good ſubjects in this colony, we cannot conſent unto, or give "our approbation of, the proceedings of the aboveſaid Gentle- "men, nor their abettors." Signed by the Secretary.

An honourable hiſtorian remarks on the above, "That the "government of the colony, he imagined, would not be "thought culpable for refuſing entirely to ſubmit to the abſolute "authority of the Commiſſioners, which muſt have ſuperſeded "their charter; and if this authority had been once admitted, "they would have found it very difficult ever after to have "ejected it."]

The following LAW was made and paſſed by the General Aſſembly of the colony of Rhode-Iſland, at their ſeſſions in Newport, on the 1ſt of March, 1663, and not ſince repealed, viz. "Be it enacted, That no freeman ſhall be taken, or impriſoned, "or deprived of his freehold, or liberty, or free cuſtom, or be "outlawed, or exiled, or otherwiſe deſtroyed, nor ſhall be "paſſed upon, judged or condemned, but by the lawful judg- "ment of his peers, or by the law of this colony. And that "no man, of what eſtate and condition ſoever, ſhall be put out "of his lands and tenements, nor taken, nor impriſoned, nor "diſinherited, nor baniſhed, nor any ways deſtroyed or moleſted, "without being for it brought to anſwer by due courſe of law."

At a ſpecial court of Admiralty for the trial of piracies, murders, &c. on the high ſeas, held at Boſton, on Wedneſday laſt, an information was filed and exhibited by Mr. Ezekiel Price, appointed Regiſter of the ſaid court, againſt Anſell Nickerſon, a priſoner in his Majeſty's goal, for the murder of Thomas Nickerſon, jun. on the high ſeas, on the 14th of November laſt, to which the ſaid Anſell pleaded Not guilty; and upon his deſiring time to prepare for his defence, he was remanded to goal, and the court adjourned to Wedneſday the 2d of June next.

DIED.] At Swanſey, Iſaac Brown, Eſq; aged 94 years: He had deſcended from him 12 children, 112 grand-children, and 127 great-grand-children, in all 253, of which 201 are now living. He was more than 60 years a member of the Baptiſt church, and alſo of the Houſe of Repreſentatives of this province 14 years: He has left a widow with whom he lived 69 years: And what is further remarkable, amidſt all his connexions in life, he never had an action in law for or againſt him.

DECEMBER 24. By a gentleman who arrived at Piſcataqua laſt week from Grenada, and came to town on Monday, we are informed, that 5 weeks ago he was at St. Vincents, the 14th foot troops were then in good health, that he did not hear of the death of any of the officers of the 14th regiment, but two or three of the privates had died. That about 300 of the Caribbs had surrendered to the English General, who sent them on board the ships, to prevent their returning to their brethren: That there had been several skirmishes between small parties; but no general attack was expected to be made till the Admiral arrived from Antigua, where his ships were repairing the damages they received in the late hurricane.

Last night about 12 o'clock a fire broke out in a barn at the south part of the town, belonging to the widow May, which was soon consumed, together with a waggon load of hogs, and a quantity of hay: The fire communicated to a large dwelling-house, tenanted by Mr. Ebenezer Sever, and belonging to Samuel Welles, Esq; which entirely burnt the back part; but by the vigilance of the people the fire was stopped before the house was entirely consumed. It is supposed the fire was occasioned by carrying a candle or lighted pipe into the barn.

DECEMBER 28. Yesterday fe'nnight the Lizard Frigate, and an armed schooner, arrived at Newport from this place. All things are said to remain very peaceable and quiet there.

Yesterday arrived the Cruizer Sloop of War from New-York.

Extract of a letter from a Gentleman of character in England to his friend in Boston.

"Our tyrants in administration are greatly exasperated with the late manœuvre of the brave Rhode-Islanders; as a regard to the rights of the subject and the principles of justice never marked the measures of the present wretched conductors of the wheels of Government, you will not be alarmed when I tell you that they have determined to vacate the charter of that colony; to effect this purpose, which in their own apprehension will be attended with some difficulty, Admiral Montagu is ordered, with the small craft which are with him, to line the harbour of Rhode-Island, with positive orders to apprehend the persons concerned in the enterprise above-mentioned. Awed by this bectoring Commander and his gallant squadron, these bitter pills are to be crammed down their throats; but the friends of true British freedom are not without hopes that the stomachs of that heroic colony will reject the dose prepared for them; be united, our dear suffering brethren, be steady, and success awaits you; freedom, glorious freedom will be the purchase. We believe that the ancient British spirit of independence which once blest this Island, has improved by transplantation, and preserves its vigour in the breasts of Americans; cherish it, my dear friends! And by relieving yourselves save the small remnant of the virtuous in Britain."

NEWPORT, (Rhode-Island) DECEMBER 21.

We hear a letter to our Governor from Admiral Montagu, was read at the General Assembly, held at Providence, last week: In which letter the Admiral, we are told, requests his honour the Governor, that Captain Keeler of his Majesty's ship Mercury, now in this harbour, might be permitted to come on shore, without being insulted, and protected from arrests, &c. Now it is certain that Captain Keeler has often been ashore in this town, and other parts of the colony, and we never heard of his having received the least imaginable insult: But as for his being protected from arrest, we are humbly of opinion, that neither Captain Keeler, nor his Excellency Admiral Montagu himself, has any more right of protection from arrest, than any other the least or poorest of his Majesty's subjects. For the truth of which opinion we are not afraid to appeal to the PEOPLE of Great Britain; though we don't choose to be transported thither for trial.

Query. Whether Captain Keeler will publicly declare, that one single attempt was ever made to insult him in this town?

JANUARY 4. The Honourable Daniel Horsmanden, Esq; Chief-Justice of the province of New-York, his lady, and the Hon. Frederick Smyth, Esq; Chief-Justice of New-Jersey, arrived here last Thursday, in the sloop Lydia, Captain Freebody, from New-York: And Saturday evening, the Honourable Peter Oliver, Esq; Chief-Justice of Massachusetts Bay, and Honourable Robert Auchmuty, Esq; Judge of the Court of Vice-Admiralty throughout New-England, came to town by land: These four Gentlemen are appointed by the King, to join his Honour the Governor of this colony, in making inquiry into the circumstances of plundering and burning his Majesty's schooner Gaspee, on the 10th of June last.

The harbour is now guarded by the Mercury man of war, Captain Keeler, of 24 guns, the Arethusa frigate, Capt. Hammond, of 36 guns, the Lizard frigate, Capt. English, of 28 guns, the ship Swan, Capt. Ayscough, of 20 guns; and the Halifax schooner, Capt. Crispin.

PHILADELPHIA, JANUARY 6.

By a gentleman arrived in Capt. Cunningham, from Antigua, we are informed, that a vessel arrived there two days before he sailed, from St. Vincents, and gives the following account: That on the 20th of November, in landing the troops, 1 Lieut. and 17 men belonging to the 70th regiment were drowned; and they were afraid they would be obliged to run one of the transports ashore to supply the troops with provisions, being very scarce, and the surf running so high, the boats could not venture off: That a Corporal and four men were left guard over some of the Caraibs, taken prisoners; but they not keeping so good a look out as they ought to have done, the Caraibs murdered every one of them, and joined their party again. The 6th regiment of foot was arrived at St. Vincents from England.

On the 11th of December, sailed from Antigua, for St. Vincents, four companies of the 68th regiment, under the command of Capt. Stuart; they were relieved by the second battalion of the 60th regiment, from New-York.

The same Day, the Schooner Sally, Stephen Seymour, Master, sailed from this Port for St. Augustine, and was off that Bar on the Sunday following, but no Pilot attending, was obliged to go to Sea, when a hard Gale of Wind from E. N. E. coming on, which almost drove him ashore on Monday Night, and loosing his Anchors and Cables, was obliged to put back on Friday last.

On Saturday last, his Excellency the Governor, in Council, was pleased to nominate and appoint Wellins Calcott, Esq; to be Coroner of the District of Charles-Town; and a Commission has passed the Great Seal of the Province accordingly.

A FRESH PARCEL of Dr. KEYSER's GENUINE PILLS,

With FULL DIRECTIONS for their Use in all CASES. Where may be seen, A NARRATIVE of the Effects of Dr. KEYSER's MEDICINE, with an Account of its ANALYSIS, by the Members of the Royal Academy of Science.

Dr. HILL's genuine TINCTURE of VALERIAN. This pleasant Cordial and enlivening Medicine, is good against all Nervous Disorders, Fits, Head-Aches, Weakness, Heaviness, and Lowness of Spirits, Dimness of the Sight, Vapours and Melancholy, all Kinds of Convulsions, and Hysteric Complaints, Epilepsies, as also against the Sickness of the Stomach, and Flatulencies, Obstructions, and the Convulsive Asthma, &c. The proper Use in all the above Cases, may be seen in the Directions given with each Bottle.

ESSENCE of BALM of GILEAD, a grand Restorative of decayed Nature, good in all Seminal Weaknesses, Hypochondriacal and Nervous Disorders, with the Variety of Symptoms which indicate a weak and infirm Constitution.

Its cordial and balmy Quality, renders it also an agreeable palatable Liquor, and prodigiously refreshing in the sultry Heat of Summer; preventing those Sinkings which over-power the Spirits in hot Weather. The proper Use of this noble Medicine may be seen in the Directions.

Dr. BOERHAAVE's GRAND BALSAM of HEALTH. An admirable Remedy for the Dry Belly-Ach, Cholic, Griping in the Bowels, Pain in the Stomach; it cleanses the Stomach, and procures an Appetite.

Dr. RYAN's Incomparable WORM-DESTROYING SUGAR PLUMBS.

Where also may be had,

JOYCE's GREAT AMERICAN BALSAM, extracted from the best Medicinal Herbs, &c. for the Cure of the following Disorders, incident to human Nature; proved from Experience in New-York, Long-Island, and elsewhere, to equal, and rather exceed any Balsam, Essence, or Elixir, &c. exported from Europe here, for the several Disorders hereafter mentioned.

For common green or fresh Wounds, it heals at once or twice dressing, by closing the Lips of the Wound, and laying on the Wound a Pledgit of Lint dipt in the Balsam. In Nervous Wounds, where the Blood Vessels are divided, &c. it stops the Blood immediately, and heals by a few Applications. For the Cure of the most inveterate Ulcers, only wash them and keep them clean, using first if there be any proud Flesh, a common Cauttick, to take the Excrescence away, then apply the Balsam on Lint. If the Ulcers should happen to be fistulous, inject by a Syringe, and after close the Orifice with a Pledgit dipt in the Balsam, and so repeat. There are Witnesses undeniable of the Balsam alone curing a Fistula in Ano, now present in New-York: The Author of this Balsam, (under God) will engage to cure a Fistula in Ano, even if the Rectum is perforated, without Incision, except as much by a Lancet to make Way for Injection, and no more. For the Cure of Colds, attended with violent Coughing, Pains in the Breast, Inflammation in the Throat and Glands, Difficulty of Breathing, being obstructed by tough viscid Phlegm; by taking a Tea Spoonful of the Balsam, mixed with Sugar or Honey, it quickly cures, taken twice a Day, Morning fasting, and at Night going to Bed. It is exceeding good in all Manner of Swellings; for violent Falls or inward Bruises, nothing is better, for it scatters coagulated Blood, and stops Blood that might be occasioned by the inward Parts being hurt, or a Rexis of Vessels inwardly. In the Cure of Pleurisy, after Bleeding (where it is required) give a Tea Spoonful three Times a Day, in Sugar, and between Times now and then 20 or 30 Drops of spirituous Nitri dulcis, that is the sweet Spirits of Nitre. --It cures Consumptions in them that are not too far gone, except they pass the Age of Fifty, by taking of it inwardly three Times a Day, a full Tea Spoonful mixt with Sugar or Honey, each Dose. It strengthens the Nerves, and is good in all Nervous Disorders, by taking of it inwardly, and anointing the Parts outwardly, keeping warm.
